Issue1. South Korea's Employment Permit System (EPS), introduced in 2004, was implemented by the government in response to concerns about the treatment of migrant workers in the country. Prior to the establishment of the EPS, migrant workers were brought to South Korea as "trainees"—treated as interns who were paid only stipends for their work and who did not fall under the country's labour laws.

The changes to the EPS or Employment Permit System are official. I guess this is good news for the foreign workers in Korea as they can now work continuously for five years without interruption. The government have also stepped up in protecting the rights of foreign workers. Of course, nothing is foolproof but at least policies are being put into place.
